Who: Artists in recovery and people who support them are welcome to show their artwork to the community (with no submission fees).

Recovery Art Haven encourages the use of art mediums in recovery as an outlet for emotion and energy, and as a way to encourage recovery within a person through positive creativity.

We would like to encourage local artists and aspiring artists to participate in the show and to consider donating a piece of artwork to be auctioned at the event. All proceeds from the sale of artwork donations will go towards providing art supplies to people in residential addiction treatment and to provide support for sober events, activities, and resources in our local recovery community.

If you would like to donate a piece of artwork, or include your artwork in the show, or help with the event, or for more information please contact:
